

“The artist is not a special person; every person is a special kind of artist ”

It's Not Always How You Think!

Is this your team and or department:

- Problem solving and decision making always the same process?
- Strategic thoughts and planning jaded and tired?
- Innovation and creativity on the back burner?
- Unsure how to create the correct work life balance for the business and the team?
- Diversity of thought and process is a thing of the past?

If this sounds like some of your needs, consider the Metice It's Not Always How You Think Workshop

A workshop introducing powerful creative thinking tools which can be used to tackle virtually any type of technical commercial problem and create new ideas.

- Engaging Right Brain
- Changing Perspectives
- Encouraging Whole Brain Thinking
- Unlocking Hidden Potential

Using creative activities will help you and your team to develop the skills needed to release from within all manner of ideas, perspectives, and insights which until now have been suppressed.

Use them to learn to approach problem solving and decision making with new vision and discover a world of innovative solutions to everyday, and even some not-so-everyday challenges

The team will provide you with an opportunity to explore and study many creative thinking techniques and exercises.

By becoming familiar with concepts that result in original thought and examining a variety of creative thinking techniques, you learn to:

- See what others do not see
- Think what others are not thinking.
- The result is an "opportunity mindset."
- A key to open your brain

It is a great tool for creative ideas for developing new or challenging existing products, services, names, businesses, processes, marketing materials, etc.
